BOYS' WORK

Wednesday last was a memorable day for the boys of the town. The occasion was a visit to the town of Taylor Statten, the international Secretary of Boys' Work. It may not be generally known that Canada has what is called the four-fold development plan of religious education, has set a standard which has been adopted by all the progressive countries of the world in connection with the training of teen age boys, in the work of drawing up and adopting to actual conditions this scheme, no one has had a more important part than Taylor Statten. The boys all over the country know him by name at least and by reputation. So it was an enthusiastic gathering of about a hundred that turned out to meet him on Wednesday at 3 p.m. In about an hour and a half Mr. Statten by the true Socratic method, had secured a fairly good insight into the needs of the boy life in Napanee.

At the Father and Son banquet held later in the basement of Grace Church, at which about 200 were present, he set forth the information to impress upon the elders, the need of a more thorough attention to the young manhood of the town. This banquet was an enthusiastic gathering, with the Walters orchestra leading in community singing. After the supper Mr. Statten addressed a public meeting in the main auditorium of Grace Church where he spoke to the people of the town on the responsibility of church and home to the growing teen age boy.

Mr. Statten's enthusiams was contagious, and he dealt with his subject in a masterly way. Nobody who was there could help but feel a deepened sense of the needs of the young men of the town and the necessity for some concerted action to meet these needs, and it is hoped that something definite will result from the gathering.

The meeting was well organized under a capable executive from the various churches of the town, Mr. Frank Bell was general convenor of the refreshments and with him were Mr. Wiseman, Mr. F. L. Hooper from Grace Church; Mr. George Walters from St. Mary Magdalene's, and Mr. Chas. Conway and Mr. George Howitt from the Methodist. The way in which these men did their work left nothing to be desired from the point of view of efficiency and promptness.

Mayor John Dalton passed away after but a week's illness from erisipelas, followed by a slight stroke. Mr. Dalton came to Deseronto 42 years ago as an employee of the Rathbun Co., and some years afterward engaged in the furniture business, later also handling hardware. He was Mayor of Deseronto three times, Reeve twice and a member of the town council and school board at different times. The funeral was held from his late residence on Sunday afternoon.

After eight weeks of intense suffering Mr. Ben Foote passed away at the home of her brother-in-law and had the misfortune to fall and break her hip. Mrs. Foote was 82 years of age and had been a resident of Deseronto for forty years. The funeral took place on Saturday from the residence of her son, Mr. Alex Foote. Mr. Robt. Irvine is quite ill at his home on Thomas St.

COUNTY COUNCIL

Council met in the Court House on Tuesday afternoon, at the call of the Warden.

After the opening ceremony a resolution of condolence, to the family of the late R. A. Fowler, M.P.P., was unanimously passed as follows:

That we, members of the Council of the County of Lennox and Addington, before entering upon the business of this session, desire by this resolution to express our deep regret at the passing away of Reginald A. Fowler, of the Township of Amherst Island, an outstanding figure in this community, though of the most retiring disposition. From his youth to his demise Mr. Fowler's career has evidenced the possession by him of many sterling qualities. He was an industrious, successful farmer, a man of the strictest probity, a loyal citizen of the Empire, a conscientious, painstaking Legislator, a man who turned his abilities to improving the interests of his local municipality and of this county, a courteous, affable gentleman and above all a humble, consistent follower of the lowly Nazarene.

In his youth he served his country in the Red River Expedition of 1870 under General Wolseley.

As Reeve of Amherst Island in 1901-2 and as one of the Representatives of the Ernestown County Council Division of which the Island formed a part in 1901, 1902, 1903 and 1904, he was a member of this Municipal Board, and during that period he was elected Warden of this County in 1903.

As member for Lennox in the Local Legislature of Ontario from 1914 he was regarded by all the Members of the Assembly, of all political parties as a man of the highest character.

In the latter stages of his earthly career he endeared himself to his numerous friends and was held in the highest esteem by all his acquaintances.

We, of this present Municipal Body in thus voicing our tribute to his memory are simply expressing the opinion of all who have had the privilege of associating with him. We tender our heartfelt sympathy to the wife and children of our departed friend and trust that the knowledge of the high regard in which he was held by all who knew him may be a solace to the wife and family in their affliction, and may in a measure assuage their grief.

CREATION OF KNOCKERS AND BOOSTERS

In the beginning when the Creator had made all the good creatures in the world, the Spirit of Evil brooded mightily and he introduced into the minds and hearts of insects, reptiles, beasts and men the seeds of jealousy and ill-will. When this evil work had become manifest in many deeds of hate by living creatures against each other, the Devil gathered all the worst thoughts of all these creatures, caused them to take man's shape, clothed him with suspicion, shod him with envy, gave him a yellow streak for a backbone, and christened him "A Knocker."

This product was so fearful to contemplate that the All-Wise Creator decided to make something to counteract it; so he took a sunbeam, the heart of a child, the sense of beauty in flowers, fields and the Great Outdoors, formed them into the shape of an upright man, clothed him in civic pride, girded him in equality and justice, armed him with mercy, righteousness and good will, and named him "A Booster."

Since these two were created, man has had the privilege of choosing his own associates.

BATH.

Bath and Portsmouth had a hockey scrimmage and sure as you're a sinner, Portsmouth lacked the lucky punch that made old Bath the winner. The game was fast and rough in spots, the crippled about every one. Sometimes Bath played just four real men to Portsmouth's "mighty seven." It was a long game and proved in period one, and though our "Sch" was there he tied the score on Hatter's Bay. Then Ernie Young bobbed up and used new hockey jeans; in period two he slammed one through and gave the boys their beans. Again "Sch" got in period three and with Wilmot a close second, and though the Portsmouth lads were sports, 'twas more than they could stand. Now we've a word about Bath boys, though "Baker" was the limit, "Patt" put him on the fire escape in just about a minute. For where Patterson, the banker is, we know there's "mischief brewin'," and when he takes his glasses off, he makes a mark, then some more to put him off his feet. We must not forget our man in goal played a splendid game that day, for Merton's good in hockey as well as "buying hay." We will admit Portsmouth can play; we know that they can do it, but we've the brand and glorious feelin'" that we can beat 'em to it.

Glass Worth Caring For.

The collecting of old stained-glass is a hobby for millionaires only. Twenty thousand dollars and upwards constitute a quite common price for small examples of fifteenth-century work; while a single panel of thirteenth-century stained glass, very few specimens of which are in existence, may fetch anything from $40,000 to $100,000.

This figure be based on the price of $75,000 paid in New York for similar glass measuring 30 inches. York Minster window measures 30,000 feet.

Values in stained-glass bear little relation to mere size. Quite small windows, of the kind known as "diamond quarries," because of the shape of the panes, have changed hands for several thousand pounds.

Most highly prized of all are the Swiss miniature stained glass windows, dating from the early part of the sixteenth century. Some of these tiny panes are no larger than the palm of one's hand, yet they contain in that small space delicately colored and beautifully executed pictures of scriptural subjects.

In mediaval times there was a regular craze for these tiny windows amongst the Swiss people. Great artists like Holbein did not disdain to execute designs for them, and every household, no matter how poor, prided itself on possessing at least one of them.

When the craze died out, however, they were looked upon as worthless. Napoleon's soldiers stole thousands of them, only to throw them away upon the march when they were tired of carrying them.

To-day the few perfect specimens left are worth many times their weight in gold.

Spoiled Children.

Dr. A. A. Brill, of New York, in his study of 400 cases of patients who had been only or favorite children, found that only ninety-three of them had married, though their average age was thirty-four, says a writer in McClure's Magazine. In his opinion most of them remained old maids and old bachelors because they were unduly dominated by their attachment to their parents.

Massed Selling

by Long Distance

Right now, all over Canada, salesmen are making appointments with customers in distant cities, forestalling competition and getting the orders on the books.

At no time in history has it been more important to the business man to be in many places in one day. The more places he can be in, the more goods he will sell.

No man can be in two places at once except he use Long Distance.

In many cases the line that separates the efficient from the inefficient is the thin copper line of Long Distance.

BRITAIN NEEDS STORE CATTLE

A newspaper cable dispatch says that British farmers in many districts are very short of store cattle just now and would welcome suitable supplies from anywhere. It is naturally hoped that Canada will be able to supply at least a large part of the deficiency, but to take full possession of the opportunity here offered, and to create something like a permanent impression, the cattle furnished, as the Dominion Live Stock Branch sets forth, must be of good type, well fleshed and with the finishing necessary to take on the proper finish. The animals should be under three years of age and weigh not less than 1000 pounds.

In connection with the situation here unfolded it is worth while repeating the six factors given by the Agricultural Department at Ottawa as a necessity in profitable beef raising, namely : Use of purebred bulls only ; Economical forcing of the cattle ; bringing to early maturity ; selling as few calves as possible in the fall ; winter finishing in as far as possible ; distribute marketings. Regarding the last three counsels the Department further says, "It is a striking fact that half the cattle sold in Canada each year are put on the market in the four fall months. Suitable unfinished stock should be carried over for winter finishing. A spread of 150 to 200 cents per pound between fall and spring prices is enough to warrant winter finishing. The British market should make winter finishing doubly profitable."

Served Well In Egypt.

It seems a short distance from Montreal to London, judging by the number of Montrealers of Canada's greatest port who have became even more eminent and useful in the world's greatest port, London on the Thames. Perhaps earliest among these that are remembered was the late Sir Charles Hanson, who became Lord Mayor of London, without reclaiming interest in Canada. Among the most recent is Major Elsdale Molson, M.D., J.P., son of Charles Elsdale Molson of Montreal and a native of the city that nestles beneath Mont Royal.

Major Molson is a retired member of the medical profession, the sort of man who retires the very moment a job is done and enters on a new job at once. He entered the war in August, 1914, as an officer of the R. A. M. C. and served in England and in Egypt until December, 1918—no later. Then he returned to politics. In the general election of 1919 he was promptly elected to Parliament for Gainsborough. He had run in 1910, so campaigning was not a new thing to him and his war services, excellently rendered as a medical transport director in Egypt, were loyally remembered.

Major Molson was re-elected to the present House of Commons by a handsome majority. He is a Conservative Unionist.

Born in 1863, Major Molson grew up in Montreal society and was educated in the Old Land, at Cheltenham College and at Emmanuel College, Cambridge.

Forget Caches of Nuts.

Squirrels are responsible for the appearance of oak-bearing trees in unexpected places; they are forgetful little elves, and many of the carefully hidden nuts they have cached for the winter are overlooked, germinate and become trees. Walnuts, because of their large kernels, are especial favorites with the squirrels; these trees are troubled by few pests, furnish fine shade, and are commercially valuable; the timber makes excellent airplane propellers and gun stocks. The war thinned our resources in black walnut down to 820,000,000 feet, and half of this is inaccessible for commerce.—Scientific American.

British imports into Canada for the twelve months ending with June amounted to $116,000,000, a decrease of $60,000,000 compared with the corresponding period last year.

MARKETS AND REQUIREMENTS FOR EXPORT CATTLE

(Experimental Farms Note.)

Feeders of beef cattle may look with considerable assurance for a strong market for PROPERLY SELECTED AND FINISHED export beef on the hoof during the latter part of April and the first weeks of May. No very great movement can take place before that time, for the terms of the cattle embargo removal, which become effective April 1st, stipulate that all cattle must be shipped from a Canadian port. Montreal is the logical economical port for these shipments, but it will not be open until the end of April. A few shipments may go by way of Halifax or St. John in the meantime, but, on account of the high cost of rail transportation, the bulk will be held for the opening of the port of Montreal. Present indications point to a heavy demand from the British market as soon as it can be supplied.

The statement, "PROPERLY SELECTED AND FINISHED" used above is used advisedly. The British consumer is a connoisseur of beef and his palate is not likely to be satisfied with any second rate meat, consequently if we do not wish to land this prospective beef trade into the secondary position in which we now find our bacon trade, let us start right by sending over a well graded product. Grading should be done on the basis of breeding, age, finish and suitability for shipment. In the first place, an export steer should show sufficient good beef breeding that he will fill the eye of the prospective buyer on that score alone. First impressions are most lasting. Size is both for and against. Shipment being on the basis of so much per head, the heavier the animal the lower the cost of transportation. The demand, however, is for a medium sized animal. Selection should therefore be on the basis of weight for size and age, i. e., heavy little animals. The finish must be up to a fairly high standard, recently and uniformly put on. Here to a greater extent than is the case on our home market is where feeding to a high finish will be justifiable, the probability for export shipment includes such factors as freedom from coarseness, freedom from blemishes ; a degree of docile temperament ; and last, but not least, an absence of horns, for dehorning is practically imperative for export shipping. If these few factors are kept in mind at the start and nothing but Canadian No. 1 shipped over, a steady rather than a glutted market may be looked for.

BETTER FARMING SPECIAL TRAIN

In co-operation with the various breed associations, the Provincial and Federal Departments of Agriculture and the railways, a "Better Farming Special" is being sent through the older counties of Ontario. The train is composed of sixteen cars as follows : 2 stock cars for bulls, 1 car for food, hay, etc., 3 cars for bulls, 1 car for market beef cattle, 1 car for dairy cattle, 1 car for demonstration car, 1 canopy car for hogs, 1 car for market hogs, 1 car for sheep and wool, 1 car for poultry, 1 passenger car for lecturing, 1 tourist sleeping car, 1 cafe parlor car.

On this train specimens of the best breeds of cattle, sheep, swine and poultry will be exhibited.

The best type of steers for the domestic and British markets will be on view as well as a demonstration of the value of using purebred sires in the beef industry. In the hog car are shown samples of good and indifferent types with the live swine in pens and typical sides of bacon on the walls above. Some good types of sheep are shown with a special exhibit of the various grades of wool and samples of the cloth made from the same. Graded eggs are shown and demonstrations will be given in culling in poultry wherever desired. The main utility breeds of hens are carried on the "special."

In the lecture car competent authorities will address farmers on various live stock subjects at points en route.

R. W. PAUL, Reeve.
H. A. WOOD, Clerk.

Conquered Sahara.

A short item of news recently heralded a great victory, the virtual conquest of the Sahara Desert, for that is what it amounted to. A new kind of caravan, composed of five little French caterpillar automobiles, has just crossed this wilderness in twenty-one days, as compared with a minimum of three months required heretofore by camel caravans. The trip taken was from Algeria, on the north coast of Africa, to French West Africa, a distance of 2,000 miles, the expedition being organized from the standpoint both of exploration and experimentation in automobiling. Somehow it seems to presage the era visioned by Isaiah: "The desert shall rejoice, and blossom as the rose."

LESSON FOR MARCH 18

JESUS CRUCIFIED

LESSON TEXT—Luke 23:33-36.
GOLDEN TEXT—He was wounded for our transgressions, He was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon Him, and with His stripes we are healed.—Isaiah 53:5.
REFERENCE MATERIAL—Psa. 22:1-21; 1 Cor. 1:23, 24; Gal. 6:14.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus on the Cross.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus on the Cross.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Our Salvation Costs.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Meaning of Christ's Death.

We now face the greatest tragedy of all time. No record in the annals of history approaches it. It is the very climax of all history. Though unique in its blackness, from it flows the streams of liberty and life for all the world. Let every teacher have the personal experience of Christ's death for him, and then get his pupils to see that Christ's death was instead of their own death.

I. The Place of Crucifixion (v. 33). They led Him away to Calvary, a hill north of Jerusalem resembling a skull. Calvary is the Latin word and Golgotha is the Hebrew. This is a significant name for the place where man's redemption was accomplished. The skull is an apt picture of man's condition as the records of sin—life and intelligence are gone, leaving only the dark empty cavern which once contained them. Jesus was not crucified in the city for He was to suffer without the gate (Heb. 13:12).

II. His Companions on the Cross (v. 33).

Two malefactors were crucified with Him. Their names are not given. This is a fulfillment of the Scriptures. "He was numbered with the transgressors." (Isaiah 53:12).

III. His Forgiving Love (v. 34).

He cried, "Father, forgive them." He doubtless had in mind not only the soldiers who acted for the government, but the Jews who in their blindness were ignorant of the enormity of their crime. He had no hatred in His heart. He yearned for their salvation.

IV. The World Revealed (vv. 34-43). Jesus Christ on the cross is the supreme touchstone revealing the bare the heart of the world. Take a cross section of the world at any time since Christ was crucified and representatives of their classes were found around Jesus on the cross. Such is the judgment of this world (John 12:31).

1. The Covetous (v. 34). They gambled for His seamless robe right under the cross where He was dying. This represents those whose primary interest in Christ is a means to get gain.

2. The Indifferent (v. 35). The people stood beholding. The great mass of the world gaze upon the crucified Christ with stolid indifference.

3. The Scoffers (vv. 35-39). (1) The rulers reviled Him for His claim to being a Savior. They wanted a Savior, but not a crucified Savior. Many today are religious but have only contempt for a salvation which centers in a blood atonement. (2) The soldiers reviled Him for claiming to be a king. The title, "King of the Jews" had been placed over His head in bitter irony, but it was true, for by right of the Davidic covenant He shall be King over Israel (II Samuel 7:8-16). (3) The Impenitent Thief (v. 39). This brutal man is in dwelling in the world even when he was under condemnation.

4. The Penitent (vv. 40-43). The conscious sinner who discerned the heart of the Savior prayed for mercy. The salvation of this penitent thief is a remarkable picture of the saving power of Christ. The man confessed his sin as against God and cried to Jesus for salvation. He saw that the dying man was the forgiving God. The fact that he acknowledged his sin as against God showed that he was penitent. His request for Christ to remember him when He came into His kingdom shows that he recognized that the one who was dying on the cross was coming. A penitent for sin and that he would come to reign as King. His salvation was immediate. Christ said, "Today shalt thou be with me in paradise."

V. The Death of Christ (vv. 40-46).

So shocking was the crime that nature threw around the Son of God a shroud to hide Him from the Godless crowd. Darkness was upon the land at noonday. When the price of sin was paid He cried with a loud voice showing that He still had vitality—that His death was not through exhaustion but by His sovereign will.

SOME SMILES

SEEKING THE FACTS

"Don't you think she's gifted?"

"She may be."

"You ought to know. You've just heard her sing."

"Why didn't you ask me if I thought her gifted as a singer! Then I could have answered promptly. I thought perhaps she could do something else."

Too Much Service.

"Waiter," said the fussy old gentleman.

"Yes, sir."

"I've made three different attempts to take a dose of medicine in half a glassful of water. Each time I get the water reduced to the right quantity you rushed around and filled up my glass. Stay away from me until I want you."

Disarming Criticism.

"Do you believe campaign orators should enliven their speeches with humorous anecdotes?"

"Certainly," said Senator Snortsworthy. "After a speaker has told one or two good stories nobody but an exceptionally hard-boiled character would have the heart to heckle him."

Watch That Didn't Vary.

"Henry," said Mrs. Gloonip, at dinner, looking down at her watch, but speaking to Mr. Gloonip on the other side of the table, "my watch hasn't varied a second in a week."

"Remarkable!" said Mr. Gloonip, "how did you get it to vary so little?"

"I broke the mainspring."

Knows Too Much.

"How is Mr. Grabcoin's business career?"

"In what particular?"

"Would it bear a close inspection?"

"I don't know about that, but I daresay Mr. Grabcoin's lawyer is about the last man in the world he'd want to write his biography."

SOME HOPE

"Reggy, do you ever intend to quit smoking cigarettes?"

"Dear boy, why should I?"

"Because if you don't they will kill you."

"Well, when they do death boy, I'll quit."

The Bucketshop Blues.

To market, to market,
To buy a little stock;
Home again, home again
To put my watch in hock.

Nonproductive Arts.

"You lack the creative faculty."

"I make money."

"But you don't create anything that will live—like a poem, a picture, a piece of music."

"I understand—something that will live, but is hard to live on."

The Exception.

"Remember, there is room on top for everyone," said the professor to the graduating class.

"Not in my father's business, sir," spoke up a student. "He paints liberty poles and flagstaffs on skyscrapers."

Qualified.

The County Commissioner—I'd like to recommend you for the job of superintendent of the poorhouse, but what experience have you had?

Mr. Longsuffer—Ever since I've been married I've run a small poorhouse for the benefit of my wife's relations.

His Goal Won.

"You have no ambition," complained his young wife.

"Not now," he replied indolently. "You never did have any."

"Oh, yes, I did, but I achieved my ambition when I acquired a rich father-in-law."

Might as Well.

"Women demand more liberty."

"Don't they vote and smoke and do pretty much as they please? What more do they want?"

"I understand some of them would like to hoist one foot on a fire plug and talk politics the way men do."

Rural Quietness.

Tourist—Is that a quiet place?

Fisherman—Well, I guess sir, until folks began coming here to be quiet.—London Punch.

Out at Eyebrows.

"Phyllis looked a perfect fright when she returned from that hunting trip."

"Yes, there was six weeks' growth of eyebrow on her face."—Life.

William the Third.

Is the Salvation Army to become a kingdom? Three generations are usually more than enough to establish a dynasty. The Salvationists have had two Booths, first, William Booth, whom the London Times used to call "General" with emphasis on the quotation marks; secondly, William Bramwell Booth, now head of the world-wide organization, and the third is William the Third, now on a tour of India with his parents. He, too, is an army officer, and is right in the line of succession.

CONSULS IN TORONTO

FOREIGN COUNTRIES LARGELY REPRESENTED.

J. Enoch Thompson, Who Represents Spain, Has Done Much Good Work For His Country, But There Are Others Who, Although Less Conspicuous, Are Nevertheless Active When Occasion Requires.

Seventeen foreign countries are represented in Toronto by consuls or consular agents. This is an imposing record for a Canadian city of half a million population. In certain instances native-born Canadians act as the representative of the foreign country, and in other cases the positions are filled by natives of the countries served, or by honorary consuls. All these officials require permission from the King of Great Britain to exercise their functions, which is given in a formal document called an exequatur, signed by his Majesty personally. Consul-generals have the right to import articles free of their own use free of duty, without being opened. Consuls of a lower rank as a matter of courtesy generally receive the same privilege. Several of the consuls have very gay uniforms to wear at official functions, while others attend in ordinary tweeds and worsteds.

The United States has more consular representatives in the Dominion than any other country, the number being about fifty. The American consul in Toronto has been there several years and has the reputation of being a hard worker. His duties are more numerous than he would probably care to admit.

When Japan has a consul-general at Ottawa and native Japanese as representatives of the Far East in other parts of Canada, Sir Edmund Walker acts as honorary consul-general for that country in Toronto.

While the land of the rising sun is well represented the Chinese have no consular office in Toronto although there is a considerable Chinese population in that city.

Brazil has for many years had a well-known Toronto broker acting as consul. The duties are comparatively light and principally consist of the drafting of reports to the Brazil Government and affixing vise to passports.

The consul for Honduras is another official who is not over burdened with consular duties.

Mexico has had a vice-consul in Toronto for a great many years. There was a recent change in that country's representation in Canada and several new officials have arrived during the past few months.

A native of Spain is consul for Cuba in Toronto.

Coming to European countries, both Belgium and France are represented by a military gentleman of culture who has resided in Toronto for many years, and who lost his son in the great war.

Italy has a very active consulate in Toronto where there is a prosperous and growing Italian colony. During the war many additional duties were imposed upon the consul, and Italy's reservists went overseas in great numbers to fight for the land of their birth.

The Netherlands has been given consular representation by a well-known Toronto citizen in a manufacturing and produce business.

Norway has had the services of a Norwegian who has resided in Toronto for more than twenty years.

Spain is represented in Toronto by Mr. J. Enoch Thompson, and in length of service and age he is the senior member of the consular body, having served for thirty-three years. He was appointed honorary vice-consul of Spain in 1889. Next year he arranged the first Canadian trade mission products at the Toronto Industrial Fair, by procuring a large consignment of Spanish merchandise direct from the manufacturers in Spain. The queen regent of Spain recognized this enterprise of her Toronto consul by conferring on him a Chevalier of the Order of Isabel.

For services rendered during the Spanish-American war the Toronto vice-consul was awarded the Cross of Charles III., and promoted to the grade of consul for Ontario. After twenty-five years service, he was made a Knight Commander of the Order of Isabel, and last year when in Spain his majesty honored him with a special private audience.

Germany has not re-established its consulate in Toronto. For many years that country was represented by a well-known German, who had resided in Toronto for a considerable time and carried on a manufacturing business. It was several days after the outbreak of war, August 4, 1914, before instructions were given by the Canadian Government to close the German consulate at Toronto. The German consul, who was active in promoting Canadian-German trade relations. He died on board ship last year on his way to England.

Greece has an official at Montreal. When the British Minister at Athens took his departure from that city as a protest against the execution of five cabinet ministers, there arose some doubt as to what would happen to the Greek consul at Montreal. It was stated there that if Great Britain severed her relations with Greece there would be nothing else for the Greek consult to do but depart.

The Average Pace.

Wife: "It says here that the average walking pace of a healthy woman is about seventy-five steps a minute."

Husband: "And the average talking pace of a healthy woman is about seventy-five words a second!"

Taking No Risks.

"So Smythe is a man of his word?"

"I don't know. I've always insisted on cash when dealing with him."

The British Way.

In commenting on American golfers, the London Telegraph says: "What terrible fellows these Americans are! They do not stroll into the clubhouse and say to the first man they meet, 'What about a game?' Oh, no. They take out one club and a pocket full of balls and practice and practice until a particular type of shot is so perfected as to become automatic. It is like the morning shave. We lather and scrape without thinking about it. But we do cut ourselves sometimes."

Is Man's Friend Departing?

The stallion, grazing on the pampas of South America, threw up his head and sniffed the air.

He scented danger! The mares and the colts went on feeding, satisfied that their chieftain would guard them against any enemy.

He had won his way to be lord of this herd of mustangs after many a hard fight with rivals, and he was always ready to do battle for his rights.

Very handsome he looked as he gazed boldly round. Man was practically his only enemy to be feared, and this time he knew that man was near.

A neigh brought his wives and children close behind him, and there they stood for a moment like statues, with necks outstretched, and ears thrown forward ready to catch the faintest sound.

Over the round of a rise some tiny objects appeared, and the stallion neighed defiance. Then he turned, and in a second was leading the flight of forty of his kind.

A moment later he halted, and the rest halted, too. It was evident that their lord was undecided what to do.

Then the stallion walked on a few paces part of the way back, and had another look at the enemy. Then he neighed shrilly; but it was a different neigh from the last. It was an invitation.

A man was riding a horse and leading two mares, and the stallion knew his lovely mares to join his family. They heard the call, and became so restive that the man had hard work to control them.

The stallion now advanced alone, neighing and prancing. He galloped round the intruders in a wide circle, and then stopped again.

Now the horse which the man was riding took up the challenge. He answered the neighs and roared aggressively. His rider used his whip and spurs, and then the stallion came nearer.

The man took his rifle and shot at him, but his horse reared so that he could not shoot straight; and a moment later the stallion attacked his horse, rearing and biting, trying to seize it by the crest of the mane.

But the tame animal had not the fierceness of the other. In five minutes he was racing away like a deer in his tracks, with the stallion thundering after him.

Then the herd took up the chase, and rushed off, the two mares with them. The bales fastened upon their backs were pulled to pieces by strong teeth, and their master found himself left alone in the plains from elimination, his only chance being to chase his mount, if it had not been killed by its wild relatives. Anyhow, all the goodly he was gradually through this lonely district were scattered and lost to him.

Night the herd, stronger by the two mares, and after they had endured a rather rough time from some of their sisters, they settled down as a part of the little community.

There was plenty of food, and the herd would increase until such time as the wild stallion should begin to induce some of the mares to leave with him and follow his fortunes.

And the stallion would hold sway until, age weakened him, when a stronger rival would defeat him and take his place. For by battle the lordship of the herd must be won, and by battle it must be held. When the hour of defeat came, as come it must, no mercy would be shown, for might is right in the animal world, and only the strongest are the fathers of the herds.

The ancestor of the horse is supposed to have been a small animal, existing perhaps a million years ago, of the size of a fox terrier. It ran on tiptoe, and by degrees the nails of the toes merged and became the hoof, and the bone ran on its middle toe only, this becoming longer and stronger.

Man first became acquainted with the horse when he was hunting. It furnished his best supply of food, as is shown by the remains of thousands of generations, the long bones of which have been split open for the sake of the marrow they contained.

In the deserts of Mongolia there still exist herds of wild horses which are supposed to be like those of thousands of years ago.

Probably foals of these wild things were captured by hunters, and brought home for a future food supply. They were tameable, and it was found that they could carry burdens.

Then some adventurous warrior made one carry him, and after a time they became man's servant, enabling him to move from place to place far better than he had previously been able to do. The first horse that bore a burden for man brought civilization nearer by many thousands of years.

The rhinoceros—that huge, unwieldly beast with its coat of armor—is closely related to the horse, although this is not generally known.

But the horse with its many varieties has been man's best friend for many centuries, and now that its days are nearly over, and mechanical contrivances are taking its place, its doom is sealed, so that in time it may come to be looked upon as a curiosity, like the bison, on our own Canadian prairies.

British Army Killing Flies.

The British army is now engaged in a movement against flies. Cookhouses and other artificially-warmed places where flies are likely to go into winter quarters are being sealed and sulphur dioxide is pumped into the interior. The flies cannot escape or survive.

Bishop Won Medal.

The only bishop who has received a medal for life-saving is the Bishop of Dover, England, Dr. Bilbrough. It was when he was a curate in Tyne Dock. A pit lad fell into a coal-foul dock, and in spite of the twenty-foot drop and the dark, eddying boil on the water, Dr. Bilbrough dived in and rescued the drowning boy. For this he received the Royal Humane Society's medal.

Post offices were established in 1464.

AN OLD SCHOOL

Toronto's Oldest Education Institution is Moving.

On September 29, the foundations of the new building of the Jarvis Street Collegiate Institute was laid. Founded in 1807, as the Home District Grammar School, this is the oldest educational institution in Toronto, and one of the oldest in Ontario, having been founded 22 years before Upper Canada College, and 56 years before King's College, the predecessor of the University of Toronto.

On the occasion of the erection of new buildings in every respect modern, and well equipped, it is interesting to recall that on June 7, 1807, the school was opened and held its classes for the first time in a portion of the house of the Rev. George O'Kill Stuart, who was at the same time the first master of the school, and the first Anglican rector of Toronto. Old pupils of the school will remember that even as late as 1890 the schoolmaster of Jarvis Street was still called "the Rector." The original building was a one-storey extension of Dr. Stuart's house, built of rough boulders and roofed with half-inch boards, the dimensions being 50 by 25 feet. Among the first pupils were members of families whose names are still familiar in Toronto, Cawthra, Jarvis, Boulton, Ridout, Robinson, etc. Dr. Strachan succeeded in 1812 by Dr. Strachan, who became simultaneously rector of York and rector of the Grammar School. The school was moved into a barn, which stood on the north side of King street, about a hundred feet east of Yonge street, where it was built as its new uses served, as the home of the school during the war of 1812-14, and escaped burning, when the American soldiers sacked York in 1813. In the summer of 1816 a six-acre lot, bounded by Adelaide, Church, Richmond and Jarvis streets, was purchased, and a new building erected, of squared logs, sheeted with clapboard, in size 70 by 40 feet. This building, of two storeys, was painted blue in 1818, the expense being met by a course of lectures on natural philosophy delivered by Dr. Strachan, who was also lecturer on boys in the Blue School. In 1829 the Grammar School was temporarily merged in Upper Canada College, which when first established was housed in the old building, which was now to be called the Royal Grammar School. In 1831, however, Upper Canada College vacated the building for its own buildings, on King and Simcoe streets, and the Grammar School emerged again. The Blue School, eventually known as the northeast corner of the block, continued to house the boys until 1864, when it was finally abandoned, and a new building, also of wood, erected on Dalhousie street, just north of Gould street.

In 1869 the Dalhousie street site was sold, and the Jarvis street site purchased. During the erection of the new building, the school was housed in the new building, the school was housed in King's College building, in the Queen's Park. This building occupied approximately the site of the present Parliament Buildings, and had been abandoned by the university in 1859. In September, 1871, the Jarvis street building was occupied, and the name of the school, according to Act of Parliament, was changed from Grammar School to High School, and for the first time as a result of these changes, girls, as well as boys, were enrolled as pupils. Old pupils of Jarvis street will remember that for many years the boys' school and the girls' school were conducted independently, with men teachers for the girls.

The new building was also erected to become a pressing necessity, since the old structure, dating from 1871, and patched and extended in all directions, has become inadequate and inadequate.

The list of rectors and principals of the school is interesting; 1807, Dr. Strachan, afterwards Bishop of York, Windsor, N.S., and at Harvard; 1812, Dr. Strachan, the first Bishop of Toronto; 1823, Rev. Samuel Armour, M.A., Trinity College, Dublin; 1827, Rev. Thomas Phillips, D.C.L., Cambridge; 1836, Charles Cooper, Esq., 1838, Marcellus C. Crombie, Esq., 1844, Rev. Henry Scadding, D.D., M.A., LL.D., Trinity College, Dublin; 1863, Rev. A. A. Wickson, M.A., LL.D., Toronto University; 1872, Archibald McMurrich, M.A., LL.D., Toronto University; 1900, Major F. F. Manley, M.A., Toronto University; 1906, L. E. Embree, M.A., LL.D., Toronto University.

The site upon which the new building is to be erected is the extensive property on the southeast corner of Jarvis and Wellesley streets, formerly the home of Sheriff Jarvis, sheriff of the county of York from 1796 to 1887, in which office he succeeded his uncle, W. B. Jarvis, who was sheriff of the Home District (York) from Ontario from 1792 to 1856, whose residence, called "Rosedale," gave its name to that district. As the Grammar School has now for a number of years been associated with Jarvis street, and is to be still further associated with the name Jarvis, in occupying the Jarvis property, it will be of interest to recall that William Jarvis, the ancestor of this family, was born in Stamford, Conn., in 1756, and took part in the Queen's Rangers, and fought in the Revolutionary War. In July 1792, he was appointed secretary and registrar of the province of Upper Canada.

Experience Teaches.

In a sermon a priest solemnly urged those of his congregation who contemplated the step to enter into the state of matrimony to do so without delay.

On the way home one of his congregation remarked to his companion: "It was a foine sermon, entoirely."

"Sure it was," replied the other; "but I will be knew as little about marriage as his riverence does."

Asquith Is Now a Tragic Figure

Unquestionably the most pathetic figure that sits in the British House of Commons is Mr. Asquith. The party of which he was once the leader is split into factions, and these factions united have not the strength of the Labor party. Even that faction over which Mr. Asquith himself presides is said to be looking for Sir John Simon to give it leadership. Asquith himself is a spent force. No longer can he dream of one day forming a Government. His career is over, and yet he lingers in the House. The country has forgotten the great things he did in the war. Its remembers, when it thinks about him at all, only the things he neglected to do. It sees him as an old man struck ruthlessly aside by Lloyd George, and it no longer regards Lloyd George as a hero, it certainly does not view Asquith as a martyr. The published indictions of Mr. Asquith have been the last nail in her husband's coffin politically. He has lived to see the downfall of the man who ruined him. It is difficult to believe that he will live long enough to enjoy any more such thrills.

Asquith is a member of that middle class which in the past fifty years has given such statesmen as Gladstone, Disraeli, Bright, Chamberlain, Lloyd George and Bonar Law to the British Empire. He comes of a Yorkshire manufacturing family, and because it lacked the social ambitions he was sent not to one of the great public schools but to the City of London School. From there he went on a scholarship in Oxford and went to Balliol, then presided over by the famous Dr. Jowett, who is said to have made a gentleman of his distinguished pupils more influence in British public affairs than any other man of his time. Of all his pupils, Jowett thought most highly of Asquith. When he left he said: "Asquith is the one pupil of mine for whom I most confidently predict success. Asquith will get on, he is so direct."

Jowett was not mistaken. Asquith did get on. He became a lawyer and one of the leaders of the bar. He was clear-minded, truthful, a speaker of uncommon lucidity, persevering, and he had extraordinary ability. He married both as a lawyer and as a member of parliament of stripping a question to its essentials, and of getting to the heart of the matter in hearing. Asquith was never popular in the way Lloyd George was. He scorned the arts of popularity, and he had none of the newspaper friends build him up into a romantic or striking character. At bottom he was a very unpopular character. A comradely a man as was ever Prime Minister of England, for he did not lack the human weaknesses which endear a man to his fellows, especially if he has with the weaknesses unusual abilities.

In the early days of the war Asquith's leadership was not questioned. Nobody accused him of having left anything undone to avert the conflict, or to keep Britain out of it. His could be done without a sacrifice of honor. But there came a time when there was general agreement among those who worked with him that he was a failure. It may be that posterity will revise this verdict. But at present it stands, and assuming it to be correct one critic says that Asquith failed because he was too old, too tired for the job. The fight he had waged against the House of Lords and for the Home Rule Bill had exhausted him mentally. He was burnt out. The war aroused in him what it never responded for a while, and some of his speeches rang throughout the world. His famous "We shall not sheathe the sword" when we have not lightly drawn," was one of the noblest utterances of the war.

Toward the end of December, 1916, he and Lloyd George had ceased to work loyally together, and the latter offered his resignation, accompanied by a threat that if it was not accepted the vacillation of his chief, and asserted cruelly that his policy had thrown away many opportunities of victory. The Government over which Asquith then presided was a coalition, he having been forced by the shell scandal of the previous year to call upon Unionist to help him. The majority of the Ministers seemed to favor Lloyd George. So Asquith resigned and Lloyd George took his place. Asquith feels to-day that he was the victim of the basest treachery and ingratitude. He never could have acted as Lloyd George acted, but throughout the war he never opened his lips in public, save in support of the man who thrust him out. In the famous "victory" elections he failed to retain his seat, but came back in 1920, and now is the head of sixty members, though it appears that even this distinction will presently be taken from him by Sir John Simon.

CANADIAN WAS HONORED

Ontario Woman Received Unique Honor From Poland.

To be one of four Canadians, and the first woman, to be invested with the insignia of the Polish Order Polonia is the unique honor accorded Elizabeth Cary Ascher, of Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ontario.

The decoration Polonia Restituta (Restored Poland) which has been conferred upon Mrs. Ascher, is awarded to civilians, and others, who have rendered distinguished service to the Polish Republic. It is a beautiful white enamel cross with the Polish eagle on a central red ground, suspended on red and white ribbon, the national colors.

At a public reception held in St. Mark's Parish Hall, under the auspices of the Newark Chapter, I.O.D.E., in honor of the occasion, Dr. Michel Straszewski, of Montreal, the Polish Consul-General for Canada, conferred the decoration upon Mrs. Ascher and heartily thanked her on behalf of the Government of Poland for the splendid work she had nobly done for the Polish soldiers trained at Niagara Camp and afterwards in helping [illegible] Poland, now a free [illegible] Ascher's brother, Capt. [illegible]sters, M.A., B.D., [illegible]ner.

The occasion in which Mrs. Ascher is held is shown by the fact that the townspeople turned out en masse; representatives from various Polish organizations were present, including the Polish Consul from Buffalo. Over fifty gifts and bouquets were received from all over Canada and the United States, besides many telegrams of congratulation.

Mrs. Ascher is an energetic and active worker and to her untiring and indomitable spirit is principally due much of the comfort so enjoyed and appreciated by the Polish soldiers at the Polish Camp at Niagara Camp hospital. She was one of several Niagara ladies who endeavored to make life as pleasant as possible for the soldiers during their stay there by supplying reading matter, dainties and other nourishing food. Entertainments and concerts were arranged to help amusement and each soldier leaving for France was presented with socks and other comforts.

Collections and shipments of money, clothing, soap, hospital supplies, and other necessities she made single handed from July, 1918, to the end of 1920. But Mrs. Ascher's activities did not end here. Enthused with the true Christian spirit, she started her own private relief work and at great expense to herself she sent gifts of money and parcels to Polish chaplains and soldiers in France and Poland and has lately been sending similar gifts to orphanages in Poland.

Gifted with the true conception of service and a penchant for helping others, her activities naturally cover a wide range. Mrs. Ascher has been a member of the Niagara Historical Society since its inception in 1895 and during the last ten years, its capable secretary. In addition, she is also secretary of the Public School Board and a director of the Niagara Agricultural Society, as well as a member of the Polish White Cross, the National Polish Relief Committee, and the educational secretary and charter member of the Newark Chapter, I.O.D.E.

As a writer and journalist Mrs. Ascher has already won laurels. Possessed of an easy flowing and graceful style, her writings have proved very popular wherever they appear. When her multitudinous duties permit she is a frequent contributor to the press. No one did contribute more words concerning the Polish Camp and note in defence of the Poles when they were victims of a great deal of injustice and malicious propaganda which originated from enemy countries. For over sixteen years she has been the Niagara correspondent of the St. Catharines Standard, and has acted in the same capacity for the Buffalo Evening Times for eight years.

Recreational Uses of Forest Reserves.

It is natural that people should desire to make use of the forest reserves for recreational purposes, and, under proper supervision and regulation, this is desirable from the forest administrator's standpoint. People who spent their holidays in the woods whether simply in camping or hunting and fishing, get a good idea of the value of forest resources and thus become active agents for forest protection. The desirable locations along the shores of lakes in different forest reserves, plots are leased to citizens on condition that they erect suitable houses and keep their surroundings in good order. The number of these cottages is steadily increasing, although progress in this respect has not been so rapid of late, owing to the business depression. Fishing is one of the great attractions for tourists and cottagers, and the policy of the Forestry Branch is to maintain good fishing, by stocking the lakes with fish fry, when necessary, and by restricting the method of taking fish to angling. The efforts in this direction are meeting with success; and in the matter of fish and game protection, the Forestry Branch acts in co-operation with the Dominion fishery authorities on the one hand, and the various provincial game wardens on the other.—Annual Report, Director of Forestry, Ottawa.

VALUE OF TEA.

The "Afternoon Cup" that Stimulates Jaded Toilers.

The benefit of the afternoon cup of tea in stimulating the flagging energies of laundry workers is mentioned by the industrial Fatigue Research Board, which has just issued its report.

Investigations showed that where the long afternoon spell of five hours was interrupted by a tea interval, even if for ten minutes only, the regularity of the work was particularly noticeable.

The report stated that some of the workers observed: "We can face with equanimity, and even with enthusiasm, a period of two hours' work with the prospect of a rest, but to look forward to four or five hours' unbroken work is likely to damp the enthusiasm of even an ardent worker."

Happy Mother Praises Tanlac

Mrs. Cooper Declares it Restored Health of Delicate Daughter—Gains 11 Pounds.

"Six months ago Tanlac brought health to my daughter Stella, who is seventeen, and I wish I could tell every mother what a wonderful treatment it is" declared Mrs Lillian Cooper, 24 Caulfer St., Toronto, Ont.

"Two years ago Stella began losing ground. Her cheeks faded, she was dreadfully run-down, and so thin she was just a frame. Her nerves were so excited I feared I would have to take her out of school, for while doing her lessons she could hardly keep still and at times couldn't write at all. Her appetite was so poor she scarcely ate enough to sustain life, and her sleep was so restless she was always tired and worn out.

"I bless the day I bought the first bottle of Tanlac. My daughter has gained eleven pounds, eats heartily, sleeps soundly, and her studies are like play. The Tanlac treatment is grand, and I believe it should be in every home."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35-million bottles sold.

CO-OPERATIVE EXPERIMENTS WITH FARM CROPS.

INTERESTING NEW VARIETIES.

Seeds of practically all of the farm crops which some Ontario farmers are now growing were obtained originally from the Ontario Agricultural College through the medium of the co-operative tests of the Experimental Union. The co-operative experiments for the Spring of 1923 number in all thirty-five, and include not only the well-known classes of farm crops, but also new introductions which have been tested at the College, but are as yet little known throughout Ontario and regarding which much is being written, such as Soy Beans, Hubam Sweet Clover, Sudan Grass Field or Cow Cabbage, Hairy Vetches, Grimm Alfalfa, Rough Buckwheat, Sugar Mangels, Gold Nugget Corn and Fodder Sunflowers.

Any Ontario Farmer wishing to conduct a co-operative experiment in 1923 should apply to C. A. Zavitz, Agricultural College, Guelph, Ontario, for a circular explaining the nature of the work, giving a list of experiments, and furnishing a blank form on which to apply for the material of the particular experiment selected.

AUTHORITIES DEPOSED

Drastic Action Taken by Citizens of North Sydney, N.S.

Indignation Was Aroused by the Shooting of License Inspector and Members of Council Are Blamed —American Citizen, Alleged Chief of "Rum-runners," Ordered to Leave Town Within 24 Hours.

NORTH SYDNEY, N.S., March 12. Citizens of Sydney Mines Saturday night took the law into their own hands and practically wiped out administration of the town by the council. They held a mass meeting at which 2,000 citizens attended, appointed a large committee of citizens to handle civic affairs, and presented a resolution moving that Charles Ballard, whom they allege is the local chief of "rum-running," quit the town within 24 hours.

The meeting and its results are the direct outcome of the assault on Saturday night upon W. A. Inverbault, inspector under the Nova Scotia Temperance Act, who lies at the point of death from wounds received in the discharge of his duties. The majority of the council were held morally responsible for the fate of Inspector Theaubault, and the meeting demanded the instant removal of the five councillors who recently voted for Theaubault's dismissal.

The committee to administer the town is headed by Mayor Nicholson and includes the three councillors who opposed the attempt to discharge Theaubault, also the town clerk, all the clergy and a number of prominent citizens. Twenty special constables were sworn in to assist the Nova Scotia Temperance Act officers to administer the law.

Those attending the meeting signed 1,500 pledges pledging themselves to support the action of the meeting and the enforcement of the act.

Charles Ballard, against whom the meeting passed a decree of expulsion, has one hundred convictions under the Nova Scotia Temperance Act against him. He is stated to be an American citizen. He will be served with a 24 hours' notice to leave town, and if he fails to do so proceedings will be taken against him as an undesirable alien.

Coining Outfit Seized.

MONTREAL, March 12.—A counterfeiting plant for the making of 50-cent pieces, Canadian currency, was seized by the R. C. M. Police Saturday, and was followed by the appearance before Judge Perreault of G. A. Brisson, of the city, and Al. Marlotte, of New York, the latter being arrested ten minutes after stepping from a New York train at Bonaventure Depot Saturday morning.

Both prisoners were arraigned charged with counterfeiting, and remanded for enquete in the sum of $1,500 bail each.

Judge Perrault was given to understand by detectives that counterfeiting of Canadian currency and coin on so extensively that the Dominion was flooded with spurious money of the 50-cent denomination.

The counterfeit money is judged to be $7.5 per cent. silver, showing a small profit on each piece struck off.

No Change In Liquor Law.

REGINA, March 12.—By a vote of 77 to 66 the delegates at the closing session of the Rural Municipalities' Association convention on Friday voted down a resolution that the convention ask the Provincial Government to legislate legally and at as soon as possible to repeal the Temperance Act and to substitute a system of Government liquor control.

Escaped by Knotted Sheets.

TORONTO, March 12.—Fire in the premises of Dumbell and Taylor, Bellwoods avenue, early Saturday, caused the wife and two children of Charles Dumbell, and J. Taylor and Edward Philman, to make a hurried exit by way of knotted sheets and fire ladders. All escaped without injury.

LIQUOR PIRATES ACTIVE.

Yarmouth Schooner Robbed of Cargo and $9,000 In Cash.

HALIFAX, N.S., March 12. — An adventure befell the Yarmouth schooner Eddie James as she lay becalmed off the Jersey coast, about nine miles from Barnegat Light on March 2. The Eddie James was from Nassau for St. Pierre, and carried a cargo of six hundred cases of whiskey and had on board eight to nine thousand dollars in cash. On March 2 a large motor launch kindly consented to bring her a tank of water from another vessel, and even a supply of provisions. Accordingly, next day they ran alongside and were welcomed on board. Two of the visitors went aft to the cabin where Captain Mosher and Supercargo Knowles were. Three remained on deck. Suddenly one of the latter in the cabin shouted: "Get ready." The captain and Knowles were instantly covered by four guns, two in the hands of each man. The supercargo alone showed signs of resistance, was fired at, supposedly with a gaseous charge of some kind, and fell unconscious. Real bullets were being fired on deck, however, and their traces are there yet.

The crew were backed towards the forecastle and made to go below. The captain was also taken there. Then they were ordered upon deck one by one, and under the muzzles of the rakishly-armed crew set to unloading the Eddie's cargo into the launch. This done, all were backed into the forecastle again and locked up there. The raiders took the supercargo with them and when the men of the Eddie James were able to come on deck again the launch was speeding away towards the American coast, the liquor and money all gone. On Wednesday last the Eddie James was badly battered by the gale which swept the North Atlantic, and shot put into Halifax in a leaking condition. Nothing further has been heard of Supercargo Knowles, who is 24 years old, and belongs to Nassau.

ASSASSINS ARE BUSY

Two French Officials Murdered by the Germans.

First Manifestation of Organized Plan to Adopt More Bitter Methods of Resistance, In the Ruhr — Invaders Are Indignant and Premier Poincare Will Take Pitiless Steps to Avenge Crime.

DUSSELDORF, March 12.—Assassination has been added to the German methods of resistance in the Ruhr. Saturday evening at about 9.30 o'clock on a country road near the town of Buer a French patrol found the bodies of a second lieutenant of infantry, Lieut. Colin, of the Chasseurs, and a railroadman, M. Joly, who was filling the post of stationmaster at Buer, who had been shot dead with a revolver. The two bodies were some twenty paces apart, and each had one bullet hole in the back. The men had been shot by an expert hand, probably some former members of the disbanded Green police force.

On Sunday War Minister Maginot pinned the Cross of the Legion of Honor on the tunic of each. Later M. Maginot expressed his feelings before the assembled officers of three battalions here.

"These Frenchmen were assassinated in a cowardly manner. They were shot in the back in true German fashion," he said. "We are the stronger here, but we never abused our power. In this attitude today the population of our soldiers are animated by sentiments of humanity, but such a crime cannot remain unpunished, and it is only right that it should carry with it terrible sanctions."

Though such attacks have always been considered inevitable, as incidental to the occupation, this is the first of the kind which has proved fatal. On the few occasions on which French soldiers and officials have been shot at, it was always from a distance and, except in the case of one sentinel, without damage.

Recently, however, with further organization of nationalist bands and a comparative failure of passive resistance, the probability of assassination has increased. Such was the case in Upper Silesia. As long as the Germans expected to obtain full satisfaction there was little official crime. But the moment it became evident that their claims were failing they began to shoot.

Stern measures are being taken to discourage any further incidents. The Burgomaster, Assistant Burgomaster, Chief of Police, and two of the most prominent citizens of Buer are being held as hostages, and the municipality has been ordered, under threat of penalties, to discover and hand over the aggressors at once.

Circulation in the streets of the town is forbidden after 7 o'clock in the evening, and all places of amusements have been closed. That the assassins belonged to one or other of the secret resistance societies which have been formed among students and policy is most probable. Another of these is one itself the Young German League of Patriots, has just been discovered by the French at Recklinshausen, and the arrest of several of its members is imminent.

More severe measures are to be taken to suppress these organizations, and further expulsion of prominent citizens are taking place. At Oberhausen 90 men were expelled Sunday, and at Witten 40.

Saturday night the first attempt to break since the blockade was completed to break through the French lines. Some three miles north of Bochum two large automobile trucks tried to rush the French barrier. As on all the other principal roads leading out of the district, a trench had been dug across the road, the two trucks were loaded with railroad sleepers and earth, with which it was obviously intended to fill the trench so as to allow other trucks to pass over. Before the work could be finished the French post appeared and arrested the drivers and the two trucks. The rest of the company escaped in the darkness.

On the eastern side of the French lines in Germany have in turn established posts, with the French declare, the intention of preventing men out of work in the unoccupied territory from crossing the Rhine and seeking to work with the French.

Several persons have been arrested in Bochum in connection with the discovery of a box of hand grenades in the German prison. A stick of dynamite was found recently under the gas meter in a schoolroom occupied by the French. The French are busily engaged in trying to locate the sources of these explosives.

Negro Murderer Shot Down.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 12.—Louis Douglas, negro desperado who slant and seriously wounded five persons who were attending a death watch over Spencer, Van Buren County, Tuesday morning, was shot to death at the home of a tenant on the property of Sam Haston, one of the victims, by armed deputies, Saturday afternoon.

The negro's death ended a two-day chase with bloodhounds. The shooting of the fugitive was the climax to one of the most brutal tragedies in the annals of the state, two men and two women being shot down as they watched at the bedside of a dying woman at the home of Sam Haston, a brother of Tennessee's Secretary of State. The negro had been accused of robbing a corn crib.

AGITATORS ARE ARRESTED.

British Cities Combed for Irishmen Wanted In Dublin.

LIVERPOOL, Eng., March 12.—On Saturday at about midnight officers of the Criminal Investigation Department at Liverpool carried out a big coup by arresting more than 100 Irishmen and some women. These arrests took place in the north end of the city in connection with operations supposed to be prejudicial to the Irish Free State. The arrested persons were lodged in prison, and Sunday afternoon were conveyed in prison vans to a landing stage and transferred to a destroyer, which had been in the Mersey for the last few days.

Meanwhile a special train arrived at Riverside station, bringing, under police guard, large batches of other prisoners, including women, who are said to have been arrested in different parts of the country, chiefly in London, Birmingham and Manchester. They, too, were taken aboard the destroyer, which left at about five o'clock Sunday afternoon for an unknown destination, presumably Dublin. The whole affair was carried out by the police with great secrecy, and police to a big round-up all over the country of escaped Irish prisoners and other people wanted by the Free State Government.

Latest reports state that between 20 and 40 were arrested in London, 12 in Manchester and six in Birmingham.

No official information is given as to the identity of any of the prisoners or as to the charges preferred against them. It is understood, however, that they have reference either to traffic in arms or escapes from Free State prisons. The police decline to reveal the destroyer's destination, and the authorities took every precaution to prevent anything of their plans leaking out.

THREE DAYS ON ICE FLOES

Captain of Wrecked Schooner and Two Seamen Lose Their Lees.

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., March 12.—Captain Henry James, of the schooner A. B. Barteaux, and two members of his crew, will be crippled as a result of their three-day sojourn on an ice floe after their vessel was crushed in the ice pack of February 20th.

At a hospital here where members of the Barteaux crew have been under treatment since they were brought to port by the Norwegian steamer Hauk on Tuesday, it was announced that Captain James would lose both his legs from frost bites. One of his seamen also will have both legs amputated, while a second will lose his left leg and part of his right foot.

The British tern schooner A. B. Barteaux, which left New York on February 5th with a cargo of anthracite for this port, was caught in the ice fields off the Newfoundland coast on February 20th.

The crew, which escaped, spent three days on the ice floes without food or adequate shelter, and was rescued on February 23rd by the Hauk.

Gompers Out of Danger.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Anxiety over the condition of Sam Gompers, veteran labor leader, who suffered an attack of influenza and bronchial pneumonia, was relieved today by physicians at Lennox Hill Hospital, who reported the patient much improved and said he might be considered out of danger.

GILLETT'S LYE

Comparatively few people realize to what extent Gillett's Lye can be used to advantage in every home. For instance, with one can of Gillett's Lye and five and a half pounds of lard or grease, ten pounds of good hard soap can be made. Use one tablespoon Gillett's Lye in gallon of water for cleaning and disinfecting refrigerators, sinks, garbage cans, tiled floors, baths and toilets.

Useful for over 500 purposes.

UNION IS ILLEGAL.

Startling Decision Made by Judge In Winnipeg Court.

WINNIPEG, March 12.—The International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers is an illegal organization, operating in restraint of trade and has no standing in Canadian courts, Justice Galt of the Court of King's Bench held, Saturday, dismissing a suit brought by a member to compel an accounting by a former officer.

Hopes For an Appeal.

WINNIPEG, March 12.—"It is a startling decision indeed for, as I understand the matter, it throws our labor unions open to plundering of all kinds on the part of members." This was the comment made by R. C. McCutcheon, Canadian Grand Lodge vice-president of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers is an illegal organization, operating in restraint of trade, and as such cannot come to a court of law to adjust differences between itself and members of the organization. "I use the word plundering in this sense," said Mr. McCutcheon, "that according to this decision, a man can lay his hands on any union funds and just take the funds with him when he leaves in spite of any regulations as to the right and wrong of his action and without the organization having any recourse to a court of law. I certainly hope the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers will take the case to the Privy Council."

No Surprise Felt at Ottawa.

OTTAWA, March 12.—The decision of Mr. Justice Galt at Winnipeg that the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers as "an illegal organization" cannot sue its members in the courts has not created surprise in labor circles here.

MAY AMEND ANTI-TITLE ACT

Conservative M. P. Believes That Law Is Too Sweeping.

OTTAWA, March 12.—A debate of unusual interest is apt to develop in the House of Commons when the flux of time brings under review the resolution standing on the order paper in the name of L. J. Ladner (Conservative, Vancouver South), asking for legislation that would enable Canadians to accept from Great Britain or any foreign country any decoration (save those carrying titles) "for distinguished service or high attainment in education, literature, art and science."

Aimed at altering certain disbarments imposed by the famous "Nickle Bill," the resolution, in the opinion of its mover, is one that should appeal to any thinking Canadian. Mr. Ladner explained that his measure merely made possible acceptance of foreign recognition of unusual achievement in the spheres of human endeavor above referred to, and instanced the case of Dr. H. Ashton, head of the Department of Physics, University of British Columbia.

"Dr. Ashton has done remarkable work in research in French literature," said Mr. Ladner, "his life and letter of Mme. de la Fayette was recognized in France not long ago as a monumental contribution to research in the literature of that land, so much so that he was offered a membership in the exclusive Legion of Honor. Although it carries no title in Canada, Dr. Ashton cannot accept the distinction because of our present law, which, in my opinion, was not intended to be all-embracing as it is."

Army Estimates to Be Cut.

LONDON, Eng., March 12. — The army estimates will be up for discussion this week in the House of Commons. It is expected that the estimates will show a saving of £10,000,000. It is stated that the Chancellor of the Exchequer is not yet satisfied that the end-of-admistrative economy has been reached. The general view is that the income tax and the beer duty will take precedence of any relief from the present burden of taxation.

President Suicides.

CHICAGO, March 12.—Doors of the Logan Square Trust and Savings Bank, with deposits of $2,700,000, were closed Saturday following the suicide of Fred W. Popp, president of the institution.

The bank president was found dead in his automobile on a country road leading out of Chicago. There was a bullet wound in his head. His body was found slumped over the steering wheel. A revolver lay on the floor nearby.

Lord Crewe Ill In Paris.

PARIS, March 12.—The condition of Lord Crewe, the British embassador, who is suffering from an attack of the grippe, is causing anxiety. Pneumonia has developed. A consultation of physicians was held Saturday.

Conference on Disarming Navies.

LONDON, March 12.—It was learned to-day that during the debates on the Naval Estimates Bill in the House of Commons, Philip Snowdon, on behalf of the Labor party, proposed that the British Government call an international naval disarmament conference to carry on the work of the Washington Conference.

Duke of York and His Fiance

Good wishes which were showered upon Princess Mary when she chose for her husband an English soldier of an old Yorkshire family will be as freely extended to the Duke of York who will marry Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon. These marriages and that of Princess Patricia of Connaught to a commoner indicate that the time is past when British royalty will choose its mates at foreign courts, and increases the hope and the belief that the Prince of Wales will wed a British girl when the time comes for him to take a wife. So far Scotland has been favored above England in this matter. Lord Lorne married Princess Louise, fourth daughter of Queen Victoria. He came of an old Argyleshire house. The Earl of Fife married Princess Louise Victoria, eldest daughter of King Edward. Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon is a Scottish girl, and Captain Ramsay, husband of the Princess Patricia, is also a Scot.

Lady Elizabeth is twenty-two years old. The Duke of York is twenty-seven. She is described as a brunette with a faintly tinged complexion and an admirable figure. She and the prince have known each other almost from childhood and it is said that they met first at a children's party. According to popular rumor the prince proposed three times. The first time, it is said, was when they were dancing at Princess Mary's wedding, which will strike the average person as being an extremely unconventional, not to say awkward, moment. As a proper rebuke the young man was refused. He next chose a moment when they were golfing, and was again rejected. Then he came to the intelligent conclusion that the time to propose to Lady Elizabeth was when she was not doing something else at the moment. So he seized an opportunity after they had tea together, and this time won the answer he sought.

Lord Strathmore, the father of Lady Elizabeth, vouches for the statement that the young people settled the affair themselves without parental advice or assistance on either side. He says that the prince is a fine fellow, and that they will comply with the Queen's wishes and become man and wife within six months. The Strathmore family is not wealthy as peers go, much of the fortune of the house having passed to another branch. Lady Strathmore was a member of the ducal house of Portland. Her sons fought in the war and one of them, a captain in the Black Watch, was killed. Lady Elizabeth was a war worker, but in this respect was not different from most of the other fine girls in England and Scotland.

The Duke of York himself is a man in the navy, and was on board one of the ships in the Battle of Jutland. Later he transferred to the flying force and is a skilled aviator. As a royal prince, he is, of course, precluded from following any other occupation than that of arms. Otherwise, it is believed that he would make a successful man of business. When the Prince of Wales was abroad on his tours much of the work that would otherwise have devolved on him was discharged by his younger brother. He was especially happy in the numerous addresses he delivered before business bodies, addresses that were the result of his study of business and economic conditions. Like the Prince of Wales he is fond of sport. He rides to hounds, plays polo, and tennis and racquets as well as golf. Lady Elizabeth is also fond of outdoor sport, and much of the companionship of herself and her future husband has been on the tennis court, the golf links and the covert side.

Lady Elizabeth's ancestral home is Glamis Castle, immortalized by Shakespeare. One of its ancestors was a hostage to England for the ransom of James I. Another ancestress, Lady Glamis, was burned to death as a witch on Castle Hill, Edinburgh, in the sixteenth century. A third was slain in the Jacobite rebellion. Glamis Castle has quite its share of dark legends, the latest to the effect that there is a secret room which nobody is permitted to enter save the lord, his heir and the steward. As each heir comes of age his father takes him into this blood-curdling chamber and then unfolds the family secret. It is believed that at one time there was an heir infirm of mind and body and of strange appearance. He lived a great many years but was kept in a single room and nobody was permitted to see him. This probably constitutes the family skeleton of the House of Strathmore.

Have a British Flag.

Talk of exchanging war trophies has a stranger echo in the death at Waltham, Mass., the other day of Mrs. Amelia Fowler, who, many years ago, repaired the British flag captured by the United States army at the Parliament Buildings, Toronto, in 1813, and latterly treasured at Annapolis Naval Academy in Maryland as a precious relic. Though English by birth, Mrs. Fowler had made her home for many years in Boston. One of the principal streets in Liverpool, Bold street, was named for her family.

When she was only four years old she had demonstrated her skill with the needle by embroidering a collar so neatly that a woman said: "This child is an artist. If she does not use brushes and paint some of the world's greatest pictures, she will made the needle the expression of her art."

When her grahdparents died she went to the United States, and, having to earn her own living, started as a teacher of needlework in Boston. She made all the important flags of Massachusetts regiments, and in 1915 was given a commission to repair the collection of famous flags at Annapolis. Her master piece in flag restoration was the British flag captured at Toronto by Commodore Chauncey and Gen. Pike.

Not Worth Having.

Mr. Higginson was bragging about his newly-acquired automobile. He ended his eulogy by declaring: "It runs so smoothly that you can't feel it; so quietly that you can't hear it; it has such perfect ignition that you can't smell it; and as for speed, my boy, you can't see it!"

His friend looked startled. "Bless my heart!" he exclaimed, anxiously, "how do you know the car is there at all?"

A GENTLE POETESS.

Susanne Maria Smyth Was Not Very Widely Known.

One of Canada's minor poets who wrote verse of exceptional beauty passed away a short time ago.

Miss Susanna Maria Smyth — for that was her name—was born in Falkenham, near Ipswich, Suffolk, England, on January 8, 1848. She was, therefore, 74 years old at her death. She was the eldest of five children, three sons and two daughters. Her father and her grandfather were farmers, and all her young life was spent in rural England. She was educated at home by a governess, and later at a boarding school at Ipswich. Miss Smyth came to Canada in 1873 with two of her brothers, who settled on a farm in Norfolk county, Ontario. Three years later she returned to England, and, after the death of her parents and sister, she came back to Canada with her younger brother in 1892. After her three brothers were married she made a home for herself and adopted a little girl, who was still living with her at her death. After residing for several years in Toronto, Miss Smyth came to Simcoe to be near her brothers.

Always of a frail constitution, the last few years of her life had been spent more or less as an invalid. She was a great lover of nature, and nothing delighted her more than to watch a beautiful sunset or the sparkle of raindrops on flowers and grass, when the sun came out after a storm. She had many warm friends, and maintained her correspondence with her girlhood acquaintances in England until her death. A friend in writing of her after her death said: "The dear little lady's sunny soul of hospitality and save one such a warm welcome that you always felt you were quite at home." Miss Smyth was very fond of good literature as well as writing and painting, and although she took life seriously, she had a humorous side as well. She took to writing quite early, and composed stories and poems long before she could spell the words. She has several manuscripts published in the English papers before she came to Canada, but she was always so shy and reserved about it that only a few intimate friends knew that she wrote at all. Miss Smyth was buried in St. John's Cemetery, Woodhouse, Norfolk county, near the grave of a much loved brother.

Over the course of years many of Miss Smyth's delicate little compositions were published in Canadian papers. They reached publication in a sort of shy, fugitive manner, corresponding to her personality, as has been described. They had no accompanying letter, usually no signature beyond "S. M. S.," and were written in a shaky, weak hand that indicated a frailty of body in contrast to the cultivated mind behind it. The last poem by Miss Smyth to appear was called "October," and was published on October 12 last. It was as follows:

OCTOBER.

A tang of woods, a soundless calm,
A mellow distance soft and grey,
And the pure sunshine's sifting charm;
All through and through a perfect day.

And in my heart a memory dear
Of some unspoken October day,
When heaven came down to me so near
It never wholly went away.

S. M. S.

This reference to Miss Smyth and her work, so inadequate for her accomplishments, might well conclude with one of her unpublished poems,—

GOOD NIGHT.

The eager work is done,
The final fight;
The "last post" is won—
Brave heart, good night.

The low winds moan and sigh,
The snow lies white,
The rolling bugles cry—
Dear heart, good night.

The wrong is put to rout,
The cross gleams bright;
The last lights are out—
Good night, good night.

A Red-striped Sheep.

Discovery of a species of a mountain sheep with stripes on their backs as fine with straight horns has disclosed that the Indians in the village of Musrokuk, 150 miles north of Fort Yukon, which is now in United States territory, still regard Queen Victoria as their ruler.

Archdeacon McDonald, a pioneer missionary, translated the Bible for these Indians in 1864, and taught them to pray for the health and happiness of Queen Victoria. The late Hudson Stuck, archdeacon of the Yukon in the United States Protestant Episcopal Church, tried to persuade them that the boundary line between Alaska and Canada had shifted, and that they owed allegiance to the "Great Father" at Washington. They did not seem to understand.

When the new kind of goats was discovered, the Indians planned to attest their loyalty by sending specimens to Rt. Rev. I. O. Stringer, Anglican Bishop of Yukon. When informed that the Rt. Rev. Peter T. Rowe, Bishop of Alaska, in the United States Church, was their ecclesiastical head, they decided to send goats to both prelates.

Discovery of Vaccination Made by Edward Jenner, But Others Looked Roster

"In spite of the claims of Lady Mary Wortley Montague, Jesty, and other early inoculators, the credit for introducing the wonderful discovery of vaccination to the world and for performing thereby an inestimable service to humanity is due to Edward Jenner (1749-1823)," says a writer in John o' London's Weekly.

"The history of Jenner's investigations is extremely interesting. He was born at Berkeley, in Gloucestershire, in 1749, of which parish his father was vicar. He served an apprenticeship at Sodbury with a surgeon named Daniel Ludlow. One day a young countrywoman came for medical advice, and, smallpox being mentioned, remarked, 'I cannot take that disease, for I have had cowpox.' This made a deep impression on Jenner, and started in his mind the meditations which ultimately led to his epoch-making discovery. In the year 1770, Jenner went to London to become the pupil of John Hunter, the celebrated surgeon and coat-of-arms with whom he had a lifelong friendship, and who encouraged him to pursue his investigations.

"On May 14th, 1796, he made his first important experiment in connection with smallpox. He vaccinated a boy of eight, named James Phipps, with lymph taken from the hand of a woman suffering from cowpox. Phipps developed cowpox. On July 1st Jenner inoculated the boy from a smallpox patient, but Phipps did not develop smallpox. This was Jenner's first triumph. The plucky doctor had much opposition to encounter before his wonderful discovery became accepted by the large majority of medical men and the general public. From January, 1799, onwards, vaccination became fairly common, though its adoption was at first slow. Jenner was helped considerably by Lord Egremont, and in the year 1800 successfully vaccinated about 200 persons at the latter's seat in Sussex. On March 7th, 1802, Lord Berkeley presented Jenner to King George III., who accepted the dedication of the second edition of his 'Inquiry into the Cause and Effects of the Variolae Vaccinae.'

"Jenner's fame soon spread to the continent. In 1801 vaccine was sent to Moscow. The Dowager Empress of Russia took great interest in the experiments, and at her wish the first child in Russia to be vaccinated was called Vaccinoff. A gold medal was settled on the child for life. In 1802 the Empress sent Jenner a diamond ring as a token of the importance she attached to his discovery. Napoleon thought so highly of Jenner's services to humanity that at the doctor's request he released some of the Englishmen who had been detained in France on the termination of the Peace of Amiens.

"Jenner petitioned Parliament for financial assistance to carry on his researches, and he received a grant of £10,000, and subsequently £20,000. Altogether he was first made compulsory in England in 1852."

LORD LEVERHULME.

Lord Leverhulme, the British soap king, and one of the greatest industrial leaders of the world, has a habit of confounding his critics. A few years ago he provoked the scorn of the art world by his action in cutting down a portrait of himself by Augustus John because he thought it was too big, and by asking the artist to make a corresponding reduction in his price.

Recently Lord Leverhulme has appeared in a new aspect in regard to art through the opening of the Lady Lever Art Gallery at Port Sunlight, his gift to the community where his great plants are located, in memory of his wife, who died in 1913. The gallery has been under construction since 1914 and contains many fine works of art in sculpture, armor, pottery, and paintings by such artists as Reynolds, Gainsborough, Romney, Raeburn, Crome, Constable and other masters.

Lord Leverhulme has a habit of thinking for himself, or, rather, against many current ideas. Not long ago he uttered a protest against the rising by business men, in the course of which he said:

"If I were asked what I consider the commonest mistake made by young men to-day, I should reply that it is getting up late in the morning. I am speaking, of course, about good-intentioned young men. This fault is encouraged by college professors, and especially by university professors. The average professor has got into the habit of reading late and going to bed late. This may suit the profession of literature, the press, and some other vocations, but to my mind it is poison to the business man, young or old.

"The brain is clearest in the early hours of the morning. Late in the evening it is in its most indifferent and incompetent state so far as business is concerned. Most of the mistakes in business are made by arrangements entered into after dinner. Very few mistakes would be made if decisions were taken in the early hours of next morning just before breakfast.

"During the 55 years I have been in business I have noticed a great decadence in the habit of early rising in this country. I have also noticed a corresponding decadence across the Atlantic among Britain's keenest competitors in the United States."

Bagasse.

Bagasse is the residue of the sugar cane after the cane has been crushed and the sugar-containing juice has been squeezed out of it. In a mill in Louisiana bagasse is now treated with chemicals, pulped and then rolled into boards that, when dry, make a very acceptable substitute for lumber.

Nobel Prizes.

The Nobel prize for chemistry last year went to Dr. Francis William Aston, who is a Research Fellow of Trinity College, Cambridge. In 1921 he was made a member of the Royal Society and last year he visited the United States to lecture. Dr. Aston was been the secretary of the Cambridge Philosophical Society since 1920. Another English scientist is also on the list. He is Dr. Frederick Soddy who receives the enemistry prize for 1921. He is one of the leading British scientists and is well known in Canada since from 1900 to 1902 he was demonstrator of chemistry at McGill University. Much discussion followed an address he delivered in Birmingham not long ago in which he suggested the revoution that would take place in man's destiny once if the secret were discovered of the artificial transmution of the elements. The physics prize for 1921 goes to Prof. Niels Bohr of Denmark. He won the honor by his theory of researches into the structure of the atom. He is only thirty-seven years old and the youngest scientist ever to win a Nobel prize.

The Nobel prizes are awarded annually for physics, chemistry, medicine and physiology, literature and peace. They were established by Alfred Nobel, the Swedish engineer and chemist, who discovered dynmite and other explosives. The boards which make the awards are all Swedish, with the exception of the committee which awards the peace prize which is nominated by the Norwegian Storthing. Five prizes are awarded annually at the discretion of the various boards. They do not choose to award a prize one year because no person of sufficient distinction appears to claim it, the have the option of making the award for that year later on or of coupling it with the award made the following year. This happened last year, in the case of the prize for literature, which thus becomes a double one. The prizes are worth about $40,000 apiece, so that there is no art or a scientist in the world who would not think them worth winning. In the past there has often been much controversy as to the selections made, but on the whole the men who have won the prizes are entitled to be ranked as among the most distinguished by their time.

Canadian In Belief.

Mr. Percy Hurd, M.P., an ardent Canadian and Imperialist, is responsible for an imperial move which premier Bonar Law has sanctioned.

Mr. Hurd is a prominent Journalist in the Old Land. He is editor of the Canadian Gazette, one of those journals which seeks to cultivate better imperial relationships, and has been London editor of the Montreal Star and associated newspapers. He has been intimately connected with Canadian affairs in London all through his life.

He is also an excellent politician. In the 1922 elections he increased his majority in Frome, a Somerset division, and brought about the defeat of a Labor politician, the only nominee of the miners' federation, to bite the dust in the whole country. Mr. Hurd ran in an avowed Conservative on a platform of broad Unionism and Imperialism.

Some months ago he proposed in the House of Commons that an Imperial Business Conference be called together to cement the partnership of the Motherland with Canada and the other parts of the Empire, a proposal which was later adopted by his leader as government policy.

Mr. Hurd has written much and widely, often on imperial problems and has one volume in glowing appreciation of this Dominion.

Born in Gloucestershire in 1864, Percy Hugh Hurd entered journalism early and has served on many public bodies in an active career. In 1920 he toured Canada with the Imperial Press Conference.

Rather than delay the departure of his machine while he dressed, an air express pilot, who had overslept, flew from London to Paris clad only in his pajamas.

The V.C. was awarded to 71 Canadians in the world war.

Corroborating Exodus.

Although it is true that rarely, if ever before, has any archaeological find so piqued the curiosity of those interested in Egyptological discoveries as the treasures recently unearthed at Luxor in the tomb of the ancient King Tutankhamen, yet there is another side of the matter which it is well to remember. It is true, for instance, that much history is entertained in that when the papyri and other records are inspected it may be possible to determine whether the story of Moses' departure from the land of Pharoah really happened as described in the Book of Exodus. Maybe it did, maybe it didn't, but the fact which cannot be controverted is that there is a deep lesson in that description for those with eyes to see, which all the discoveries in the world will neither overthrow nor in the least degree illuminate.

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

Pitcairn Island Linked With Rest of the World

By Use of Powerful Radio

Pitcairn Island, a lone point of land rising almost 2,000 feet out of the southern Pacific Ocean, has a radio station, according to a cable message from Honolulu, and for the first time in its history is in direct communication with the outside world, says the New York Herald. Mails come at infrequent intervals to Pitcairn, sometimes as many as five years elapsing between their arrivals. Lying out of the lanes of Pacific travel few ships pass Pitcairn, and sailors aboard these are loath to risk their lives to make a landing in the high seas beating against the rocky coasts. There is no good reason for laying a cable to Pitcairn and the radio station has united the only means of linking up the people of this lonely island with the rest of the world. There are about 180 persons living on the island. Most of these are descendants of the mutineers who seized the British ship Bounty and settled on Pitcairn in 1790.

Once the islanders, greatly reduced in numbers by sickness, were transferred to another island, but they found the soil not

WOMEN AS BEEKEEPERS

A Work That Will Suit Their Natural Disposition.

No Better Opportunity Offered Country Girls—Beekeeping Has a Fascination for Female Apiarists—Cost of Starting and Probable Profits—Male Experts Approve.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

The historic riddle propounded by Samson: "Out of the eater came forth meat, and out of the strong came forth sweetness," was answered by citing the lion and the honey; and even then there was a woman in it.

For years beekeeping for women was regarded as an unsolved riddle. To-day it is no puzzle, for both wives and maidens are making money at it. "Sweets for the sweet."

No Better Opportunity for Country Girls.

A few years ago the writer interviewed five women who had made a success of apiary work, and all of them were decidedly of opinion that there was a good chance for a girl or a married woman succeeding in beekeeping if she went about it the right way.

Miss Ethel Robson, of Ilderton, said: "For the girl who wished to make her living in the country there is no business that affords a better opportunity than the keeping of bees."

Miss Margaret W. Scott, of Meyersburg, went so far as to say that she believed beekeeping was an occupation for women rather than for men; that there is much to gain and little to lose in it.

The Work Suits Woman's Natural Disposition.

Miss M. B. Treverrow, of Meadowvale, observed that women were more and more turning to beekeeping. Much depended upon the individual. The work was healthful, being mainly out-of-doors during the summer. "Woman's natural disposition to be careful, painstaking, watchful and energetic has full play in this occupation, as there is much to interest, to learn and to do in the work of an apiary."

Mrs. Fred. Ham, of Bath, most decidedly thought that a woman could support herself by keeping bees. "She who undertakes to do so should have as much energy, care and thought into the work that she would in any other occupation. Her heart must be in it."

Beekeeping Has a Fascination for Female Apiarists.

The late Mrs. G. A. Deadman, of Brussels, had a long experience in bee management. She said: "The apiary has a fascination for the woman who goes earnestly into beekeeping. It is a healthful occupation, for it is largely out-of-door activity, and it gives one a change of work and thought. Some heavy lifting is necessary now and then, although assistance is usually available. But a woman must make up her mind to give practically all her time to the work during the period of swarming and extracting—say June and July. After that there is packing, labeling, etc., although this may be lightened by selling in bulk, which is the best way after all to dispose of surplus honey. Bees will for months together the bees require little or no attention."

Some Apiary Costs.

Miss K. B. Pettit, of Georgetown, writing in January last, gives the following up-to-date information: "A woman can make it go, if she has sufficient initiative, energy and strength, and lastly if she likes the bees. Interest in the work and love of bees must be strong enough to overcome many difficulties besides the inevitable sting. A light start is advisable, say two or three colonies, until she masters some of the mysteries of the hive, and the general principles of management.

It would be well for her to begin with standard equipment—the ten-frame Langstroth hive for brood chamber—but would advise shallow supers, because of their lighter weight. The following list gives estimate of cost for start with two colonies:—

2 colonies bees with brood chamber bottom board and cover...	$30.00
6 shallow supers with frames...	11.70
2 complete hives for swarms...	9.00
4 lbs. light brood foundation, L. size...	1.88
4 lbs. shallow foundation...	2.40
No. 2 smoker, $1.50; hive tool, 60c; hacks, 30c; spur wire embedder, 45c...	2.45
A. B. C. of Bee Culture...	3.00
	$62.43

Ontario crop reports show an average of about 95 pounds per colony; prices vary as in other produce.

The number of colonies that can be profitably kept depends on the woman and on the location.

Probable Profits.

Miss Jessie Lees, of Erindale, also writing in January, says: "For a strong woman with nerve and determination, I consider beekeeping a good healthy occupation. Starting in a small way with two colonies, the cost for bees and equipment for first year would be about $150, not including workshop. She could increase stock and equipment year by year, according to her means, to fifty colonies, which would be enough for one woman to handle alone. From that number the net return should be $400 a year. This is only approximate, as prices and conditions vary greatly from year to year."

Male Expert Approves of Women as Apiarists.

Mr. Morley Pettit, of Georgetown, formerly Provincial Apiarist, says: "Through force of circumstances more women are actual beekeepers than the records show. There is no obstacle in honey producing that a woman cannot overcome with her ingenuity."—Thos. McGillivuddy, Statistics and Publication Branch.

SWEATERS FOR GIRLS' WEAR

Coat Models, Flat Sailor Styles and Abbreviated Tuxedo Effects Are Favored.

One color combination in a small size sweater was a lovely shade of coral with gray. Gray with blue and blue with a nice shade of green were other colors found in the slip-over numbers made with rolled collars. The coat models for little girls all have straight buttoned fastenings down the front, but are quite novel in their selection of collars. Flat sailor styles and abbreviated tuxedo effects are included.

Sweaters for girls and juniors achieved a decorative finish in their employment of fringed collars and striped bandings on otherwise plain tuxedo numbers.

Fur Adorns Hats.

Rosettes of ermine, caracul and moleskin appear as decoration on several hats of noticeable chic.

He Believes In System.

The recent death of Mr. Wanamaker, the American department store king, recalls a story embodying a spice of local pride which is told by Col. Alexander Fraser, M.A., LL.D., A.D.C. to his honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Provincial Archivist of Ontario and a few years ago a prominent Toronto newspaper man. Col. Fraser is honorary president of the Canadian Association of Record Officers, in which he takes considerable interest for he is an authority and believes in the interchange of ideas and experiences, and the systematizing of the work of record keeping, filing and indexing will without doubt be of great benefit to Canadian business.

While lauding the objects of the association and recounting some helpful observations in an address before that body Col. Fraser spoke of a visit he paid to Wanamaker's store in Philadelphia, some years ago, when he wished to inspect a portion of the system in operation there. He quoted the late Mr. Wanamaker as asking why he came to Philadelphia when in Eaton's Toronto had a store which had become a model for system all over the continent. Some time later, Col. Fraser mentioned the pleasing incident to the late Timothy Eaton, a personal friend of his, Mr. Eaton replied that "while I am not the originator of the system, which is the work of many brains, I know the working of every cog and when anything goes wrong I can put my finger on the spot and say, there lies the trouble."

Air.

The air which we breathe extends upward for twelve and a half miles, after which it contains so little oxygen that it would not sustain any form of life.

Here and There

Galt, Ontario. — It is announced by the Canadian Pacific Railway that among the improvements planned for 1923 to company property is the building of a steel water tank to hold from 60,000 to 100,000 gallons at Guelph Jct.

Ottawa. — A constantly growing appreciation on the part of Canadians of their national parks, evidenced by the continued increase in the number of visitors in the last year, is emphasized in the report of National Parks Commissioner J. B. Harkin. Visitors to all Canadian national parks during the year in question were estimated at 166,000, of whom more than 71,000 went to Banff. Foreign travelers to the larger parks were about 65,000. From an economic point of view, on a basis of $300 spent by each foreign visitor while in Canada, the national parks accounted for an indirect revenue of some $19,500,000, which amounts to about $2.22 per capita of Canada's present population. Other revenues from the parks, in the way of timber sales and concessions, accounted for $72,000. Total appropriations for the parks last year were $966,000.

Owen Sound. — Superintendent William Bethune, of the C. P. R. lake steamships has announced the officers for the steamers for the coming season. All last year's officers will be in their place without any change. The officers are as follows: S. S. Assiniboine—Captain Mc.Cuaig, master; A. A. Cameron, chief engineer; George Bethune, purser; D. A. Sutherland, chief steward. S. S. Keewatin—M. M. McPhee, master; Bitterworth, chief engineer; C. S. Miers, purser; E. R. McCallum, chief steward. S. S. Manitoba—W. Davis, master; George D. Adams, chief engineer; George H. Fisk, chief steward; John E. Laine, purser. S. S. Athabaska—Murdock McKay, master; George S. Rae, chief engineer. S. S. Alberta—John McIntyre, master; William S. Struthers, chief engineer.

Winnipeg. — In connection with movement of grain to Vancouver from September 1, 1922, up to and including February 21st, the Canadian Pacific Railway has delivered at Vancouver a total of 6,768 cars of grain representing 9,894,816 bushels.

During the same period there has been exported from Vancouver to the Orient 1,284,550 bushels and to the United Kingdom 10,093,620 bushels, or a total of 11,378,170 bushels.

During the same period last year, the Canadian Pacific Railway delivered at Vancouver a total of 3,461,952 bushels of grain, and there was exported from Vancouver during the same period last year 3,200,000 bushels, 1,220,000 of which were exported to the Orient and 2,080,000 to the United Kingdom.

In addition to this grain, which has already been exported from Vancouver so far this season, there is in store in elevator at that point 942,823 bushels, according to a statement of E. D. Cotterell, Supt. Transportation, Western Lines.

Vancouver. — In the C. P. R. Hotel Vancouver, at Vancouver, there are approximately 600 rooms. The all-the-year-round staff numbers about 400 employees. The comparatively small matter of keeping paintwork, etc., in spotless condition calls for the continuous service of five painters and ten helpers; and five engineers with four stokers, four ash-men, two s ovellers and two truckmen are required in the engine-room. Then there are basement cleaners, store-room men, four kitchen cleaners, two p inters (for menus), a yardman, an iceman five food checkers, and three men on food control. The duty of these last is to see that every ounce of food leaving the storerooms is tabulated so that at the end of each day the results of dining-room operations can be checked instantly. The kitchen is the largest unit of the hotel. There is a chef with 48 assistant cooks, to serve the dining-room and grill. There are three separate cooks for the lunch counter. Two of the cooks attend to the broiling, three do nothing but frying three cook vegetables exclusively, and there are six pastry cooks. In addition, there are cooks who boil eggs, others who make tea, and others who make coffee. One man spends his working hours making toast, and there is another whose sol duty is to clean and open oysters. To feed the guests in one day 80 dozen eggs are required. Between 3,000 to 5,000 lunch and dinner rolls are baked daily, and to butter these and for cooking, 160 lb. of creamery butter are used each day. Carrots are consumed at the rate of 100 lb. a day and between 50 to 500 lb. of potatoes are used every twenty-four hours. Other vegetables are used in quantities of from 50 to 500 lb. according to the number of guests in the hotel. It takes from 18 to 20 gallons of cream, 60 gallons of milk and 175 to 200 lb. of pastry daily to satisfy the demands of the guests. Winter and summer the hotel ice plant turns out ten tons of ice daily. Even buying at the lowest wholesale prices, food alone costs the hotel from $1,500 to $2,000 daily.

"D.B.'s" Initial Order.

Intimates of David B. Hanna, who was, until recently, at the head of the Canadian National Railways, never tire of relating incidents which have continually served to emphasize the great sense of humor possessed by the virile man, who performed such an active part in the phenomenal railway development of which Canada is famous. One of his associates, in surmounting the many difficulties which had to be faced in the early days of the Canadian Northern, declares that the Hanna appreciation of humor, which was liable to assert itself at any time, even under most discouraging conditions, was a great factor in keeping the Canadian Northern alive in the most troublous times.

When the first train was run out of Portage la Prairie, to Dauphin, in 1896, the start was exceedingly modest one. Mr. Hanna issued the time-table, a small typewritten sheet. The road only had one engine and a single crew, and Mr. Hanna's humor was evident in the time-table, in which he had embodied the safety-first principle by stating, "No. 2 will not leave until No. 1 has arrived."

Detachable Bangs.

Bangs are spoken of as used in the newest coiffures. These are curled slightly and rather more thinly than usual. The detachable kind is much easier to manipulate than those growing actually on the head.

THE HANDY WRAP

Mantel of French Type for Afternoon or Evening.

Wissome Garment Is Made of Two Different Materials in Two Different Colors

A Paris novelty which is having an immense success—especially on the Riviera—is the handsome mantle which can be worn in the afternoon or evening with equal success, notes a Paris fashion writer in the Boston Globe.

Of course such a decorative garment would not be suitable for street wear, but it would be just the right thing for a smart restaurant tea, wedding or any other such function, and then for theater or casino it is ideal. It is the sort of wrap that would please American women because it is as practical as it is attractive. Nowadays society women have such a habit of running one entertainment into another, or playing bridge or dancing until it is just the moment for dinner or theater that a generally useful wrap is a real treasure.

The most important point connected with the mantle mentioned is the fact that it is not only made of two different materials but in two different colors. The top is comparatively light, the hem very dark. This idea is carried out in silver lame, on white satin, and somber black velvet, the fur in this case being very dark sable.

Many of the newest evening dresses exploit the same idea; the corsage and hip draperies quite light, while the rest of the dress is black or dark moonlight blue.

The latest evening wraps all fall in straight lines even though some of the models are really very full. The designer arranges the draperies of evening gowns as well as wraps in a most subtle fashion. Materials are supple as crepe de chine, and so they are easily destroying that long line.

SLEEVES PART OF THE WRAP

Arm Coverings in Newer Garment Are Just an Enlongated Portion; Embroidery Is Used.

Many of the sleeves of the newer wraps will be found to be just elongated portions of those wraps. They are not at all obviously set in as sleeves, but they seem to appear quite suddenly from unexpected angles, and upon their construction depends very much the shaping of the gown, for when the arms are held closely to the figure the draping assumes one series of lines, which is altogether one thing and, again, when the arms fall loosely at the sides that draping becomes totally different. So it becomes apparent that some very clever and artistic eye and hand have been behind the designing, for no quite simple strip of material would do all those lovely drapings unless some very intelligent words on the subject of art had been said in its ear somewhere in private just as it started life.

Some of the shorter wraps are show ing very handsome sleeves, and among these are the embroidered ones, being in themselves whole masses of color But these are narrower than they were in the spring, though they do not, in any way, attempt to fit the arm. The last concession they will make is to follow the line of that arm more or less faithfully.

The fact is that many of the short wraps, while they are not exactly capes, have their side portions held in so that they become mere suggestions of sleeves. But, on the other hand they do succeed in giving the effect of a wide and full sleeve rather than of a portion of the wrap pressed into service.

Side Panels.

Some of the side panels have become so elongated that they touch the floor., Lace panels are being featured on evening and dinner gowns.

A Tailored Frock.

Touches of coral color are used with effective results on a tailored frock of beige tricotine.

Warm Rain.

When a warm rain occurs over a snow-covered region it is not the rain so much as the warm wind that melts the snow. An inch of rain at 50 degrees F. could melt only three inches of light new snow or one inch of old snow.

Adam Again.

A clay tablet, dating from 2100 B.C., give a fresh version of the story of the Garden of Eden. It states that Adam was thrust out, not as a punishment, but to prevent him becoming immortal.

MOTHER OF TWIN BOYS

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Relieved Her of Inflammation and Great Weakness

West St. John, N. B.—"I was in a general run-down condition following the birth of my twin boys. I had a great deal of inflammation, with pains and weakness. Finally my doctor recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. He said that your medicine would be the only thing to build me up. I am sure he is right, for I am feeling much better and am gaining in weight, having gone down to ninety-three pounds. I was in bed for over a month, but am up again now. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound to my friends and give you permission to use my letter."—Mrs. ELMER A. RITCHIE, 82 Rodney St., West St. John, N. B.

There are many women who find their household duties almost unbearable owing to some weakness or derangement. The trouble may be slight, yet cause such annoying symptoms as dragging pains, weakness and a run-down feeling.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a splendid medicine for such conditions. It has in many cases relieved those symptoms by removing the cause of them. Mrs. Ritchie's experience is but one of many.

COAT DRESS OF BROADCLOTH

An extremely smart model of utmost simplicity is this coat dress of sand-colored broadcloth, with the same material in vivid flame color used to make the collar, cuffs and the insert at the hem. Wheels of the main color, bordering the red, form a lovely contrast. A wide band of beaver is used to trim the back of the skirt hem.

TRIMMING OF SELF MATERIAL

Fabric of Which the Dress Is Made Put to Good Use in Flowerlike Motifs.

There is great ingenuity expressed in trimmings made from self-materials; that is, from the fabric of which the dress is made. One Paris designer is particularly noted for this form of trimming, and she is continuing the complicated and interesting details on her new models. To an evening gown of heavy silk crepe she applies flowerlike motifs made from the same material, these covering almost the entire bodice.

A particularly youthful style of dress featuring a trimming made from the fabric is of pervenche blue chiffon velvet and georgette crepe of the same shade. The georgette is introduced in the form of tiny bands, hand plaited and set into the front of the waist, the sleeves and the skirt with silver embroidery.

Another interesting trimming is a self-applique of crepe satin shaped somewhat of dull and shining surface. Velvet applique on velvet also is used, notably in leaf patterns of opposing tones of brown on beige. Another applique is a conventional tulip design cut from colored metal cloth and posed on black satin. Flower appliques in velvet also are used on crepe romain by this designer.

Ribbons are used on dresses in every conceivable way. Faille ribbon is frequently seen on velvet. One model fifty yards of it are used to make flowerlike ornaments which appear on the girdle, the sleeves and the end of the skirt drapery. A castor crepe mongol dress is garnished with a very narrow faille ribbon of matching shade, 125 meters being required to form the design.

WHEN CHOOSING THE DRESS

Thought in Matter of Selection Is More Important Than Cost of Garment.

An authority on the question of dress says that "nothing is smart that is not becoming." If we reveal ourselves through the medium of our clothes, let us, she says, at least make an agreeable revelation. The truth of the matter is that dress, like all considerable issues in life, has progressed and individuals must think for themselves instead of delegating all the rights of choice to another not so interested. It is an axiom that it is not so much a question of how much money we expend upon clothes as of how much thought we give to their selection.

THAT WOOD PILE

There ain't no poor in Napanee,
Hard times have changed to good;
The ones that lacked a little
Wealth
Have died for want of wood.

Let's sell them wood, and "do"
them good,
Said a few men of renown;
For we can palm off anything
To the simple folks round town.

We find it cheaper yet to burn
Our carpets and our chairs
It finds a job for some poor soul,
And our fuel is less than their's.

So Councilmen of Napanee,
If your reasonings none too good,
Just get your heads together
Then we'll have lots of wood."

DEAR PEOPLE :—

How's your winter's coal hanging out? Ours is out altogether, but we are not buying much of this charity wood. Oh, no, we have faith, and hope yet to be spared enough sense to know a good thing when we see it. We try to buy economically, and at the same time do the fair thing.

Our Saviour said, "Go Feed the Flocks," so you'll pardon us for referring to the word (feed); feed it means (not fleece). Now people don't be offended at our little chat; we want to keep you from getting the (blues), and remember one thing, "don't get your feet wet." We are still here and doing fine. If we can't keep your house warm we can at least make your feet feel happy. So when you're down town drop in and get warm by our (Hot Air System).

For the purpose of co-ordinating the work of the departments engaged in carrying out the extensive development plans of the Bell Telephone Co., involving so large an expenditure of capital, Mr. H. E. Scott, General Superintendent of Traffic, has been relieved of his present duties and appointed Assistant to the Vice-President, reporting to Mr. Sise. He will take charge of the co-ordination of the engineering in the different departments of the Company, the scheduling and delivery of work to be performed by the Northern Electric Company, and such other duties as may be assigned to him. Mr. Scott will have full authority over all other executives under the Vice-President's jurisdiction in so far as the above work is concerned. There is general agreement throughout the field that for the difficult programme ahead, no better appointment could have been made. The above is an extract from the official publication of the Bell Telephone Company. Mr. Scott is a former Napanee boy, the son of the late W. C. Scott and Mrs. Scott.

FOR EARLY SPRING DAYS THESE TAILORED COATS ARE JUST THE THING

Priced From $15.95 to $55.00

Top Coats tailored in England have nothing over these Spring Coats of ours, when it comes to workmanship, finish and quality of material.

The materials used in our coats in many instances come from England, the home of excellent woollens. You will find them all wool in the finest of qualities.

The colorings are most spring-like, with tones of fawns, dark browns, grey and tans predominating. The Heather combinations are also pleasing.

The "Hurlingham" is our best coat. It is hand created in the widest meaning of the term. The roll of the lapels, the swing of the skirt, the smoothness of the seams, can only be obtained by expert workmanship.

You can have these garments in double-breasted effects in single as well as double pleated styles. All styles have pockets.

The "Chatsworth" is another Canadian-made coat. These garments are made from Canadian Tweeds.

You will also find these coats indispensable for motoring, boating, travelling and for all kinds of utility wear. All sizes.

THE JAQUETTE SUIT IS DECIDEDLY FASHIONABLE THIS SPRING

This very clever addition to the suit styles is daily winning added popularity because of its many charming characteristics. Practically every type of figure can wear this style, thus it finds favor with slight and stout figures alike.

"Individuality" is the key-note of our present showing and while every garment has similar general style lines, you will find a wide variance in materials, in linings, in collars, in embroideries, in sleeve lengths, in cuffs and prices.

"Navy Blue is the outstanding color for these suits, while "Tricotine" and "Poiret Twill" are best for materials.

Priced from $35.00 to $77.50.

Other fashionable styles in Suits are obtainable in all the leading colors, at prices ranging from $25.00 to $47.50.

"CREPE MATERIALS" EXCEL IN THE NEW RANGES OF SPRING DRESSES

Colors are also Colorful and Gay.

"ALLTYME CREPE" is one of the newest dress materials. This fabric comes in a weight and weave that is exceptionally adapted to dress-making, and while it savors on a "Sportive" nature, it is good enough to wear on any formal occasion.

It comes in all the newer styles for spring and is especially effective in the straight, one-piece styles. Quite frequently it is combined with the newer paisley silken fabrics and thus many charming effects are obtained.

Obtainable in shades of Cocoa, Sand, Old Gold, Rosewood, Navy and Black.

"WOOL CREPE" is another new fabric for Spring. It will be a success because it fits in so wonderfully well with present day dress requirements. It is especially featured in the new "Hand-drawn" effects.

"CANTON CREPE" maintains the premier position among the fabrics for Spring dresses. Its richness of finish and its soft, clinging folds so beautiful to grape is a joy to designers, manufacturers and wearers alike.

Styles showing pleated panels, draped skirts and the tier skirts are extremely fashionable.

Obtainable in all the new light and dark spring shades. Priced from $24.50 to $65.00.

SPORT HATS ARE WONDERFULLY POPULAR FOR SPRING

The "Hope Hampton" is an Exceptionally Clever Style.

The "Hope Hampton" Sport Hat is a new hat to the women of Napanee and vicinity.

It is an ingenious combination of straw and wool. The flexible snap brim can be worn in numerous ways, as shading the eyes, flaring off the face, turned down on sides or back. The crown comes in medium height and slightly dented on one side. A narrow corded ribbon smartly knotted on one side, completes the trimming. Each hat is lined with a good quality of sateen.

Obtainabe in shades of Navy, Tan, Brown, Grey, Jockey and Jade.

School-girls and business women will find them wonderfully serviceable and smart.

Price $3.50 each.
